

Facts and Faith, The Dual Nature of Reality

Facts and Faith consists of lectures by Reginald O. Kapp. These lectures address the conflict between science and religion and the theme of The Dual nature of Reality. Kapp's aim is to present the case for a dualistic philosophy of nature and against a monistic one. This issue, he argues, is of enormous importance for the philosophy of science, but is less important for theology than is commonly thought. I doubt, indeed, whether monism is bad religion. But I am sure that it is bad science. Reginald Otto Kapp was a mechanical engineer who was appointed the first professor of electrical engineering in Birmingham University, lecturer, author and founder of The Presentation of Technical Information (PTI).
