

From Parched Earth to Scorched Country: From Parched Earth to Scorched Country (The Sword and the Scepter) (Volume 12)

The book describes the long conflict in Darfur. The Conflict started openly at 2003. However, the prolonged civil wars there metamorphosed from rebellion to a chronic strife that affected the whole Sudan, as a nation and county. In a prediction of lesser subsequence, long-term civil, social and economic impacts which requires reaching new developmental paradigms. In more realistic forecasting, the scorched earth method used there by both conflicting sides, the government and the rebels, the killings may produced stipulations of an independent country. The South Sudan secession scenerio can be seen in the near future.
